

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

RURAL SCHOOL GRADUATION EXERCISES.

The graduation exercises of the pupils of rural schools of Medina County, who had completed the Seventh Grade, were held at the High School auditorium on last Saturday afternoon, beginning at two o'clock. A goodly number of parents and friends gathered to do honor to the occasion of so much importance to these young people of the county. On the rostrum with County Superintendent W. N. Saathoff were the Board of Trustees: Rev. W. L. DuBose, of Devine, Mr. Godden, Mr. W. O. Rothe of Seco, Mr. O. J. Wurzbach of Maverick; and Superintendent J. G. Barry of the Hondo Independent School.

The program opened by the audience singing "America." Rev. Haaskarl, pastor of the Quhi Lutheran Church, gave the Invocation.

Mrs. R. W. Gaines, and Miss Rose Senne, Thelma and Mary Ruth Wilson delighted the audience with several quartette numbers. County Superintendent Saathoff spoke on "The Significance of this Graduation to the Student". The Rothe sisters, Misses Sarah, Ethel and Josie rendered a pleasing number with Miss Sarah as soloist, Miss Ethel playing the violin obligato and Miss Jose the piano. Superintendent J. G. Barry of the Hondo Public Schools gave an interesting talk, stressing the benefits to be derived by the pupils of rural schools who attend the local high school. Miss Irene Saathoff, of the Department of Music of the Lockhart Public Schools, gave two violin numbers in her own inimitable manner, which were a delight to her hearers. Rev. W. L. DuBose, Chairman of the County Board of Trustees, presented the diplomas to the graduates after which Rev. Haaskarl pronounced the Benediction.

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL GRADUATES THREE.

Baccalaureate Services for the graduates of St. John's Catholic School were held at 8:30 Sunday morning, May 29, in St. John's Church, with Rev. F. J. Hullweg, O. M. I., officiating. Preceding Mass the three graduates, Misses Dorothy Zerr, Lorene Sauter and Lucille Robinson, entered in simple procession, accompanied by three little flower girls, Misses Marie Zerr, Dorothy Glenn Ney and Anna Mae Carle, who carried bouquets of Shasta daisies, the class flower.

Vases of Shasta daisies adorned the altars, and the front of the church was further beautified with floor baskets of the class flower.

Rev. Father Hullweg in his impressive sermon urged the graduates to aim for higher things, not in fame or fortune, but in spiritual happiness.

WITH THE METHODISTS

REVIVAL MEETING BEGINS SUNDAY MORNING AT METHODIST CHURCH.

Something To Think About

The two newly elected bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Bishops Cushman and McGee made the very striking statement that, "this depression resulted from a moral and spiritual breakdown." They continued by saying, "and will only be solved permanently by re-birth of moral and spiritual vision. There is a lot of legislation and other measures that will help temporarily, but in the end we must make up our minds to follow better the ideals of Christian principles."

In the utterance of these two gentlemen of influence, who have so recently been raised to this exalted position and power, we have these further words. "Our economic situation is caused largely by a lack of faith. Faith is a spiritual thing. What the world needs is a spiritual readjustment. It needs to be in mass, and mass adjustment can only take place by individual adjustment."

This is not only the thought of our outstanding religious leadership, but many who are seriously looking our conditions in the face, realize that we need a readjustment and restoration of confidence. This can and will come only as a result of a spiritual awakening. The Christian Church is the only herald of the message that will call us back to a spiritual life, and lay the foundation for a readjustment that will help in the solution of our present dilemma.

As it has been very ably stated, that this is an individual process, it behooves every community to give special attention to a movement that will call its citizenship back to God and to Christian living.

This effort is being made in your community. You are invited to participate, and give your assistance in this effort, by coming in contact with the revival, that is to begin Sunday at the Methodist Church.

Will You Help?

In the solution of our mutual tremendous problem it is necessary that there be co-operation and unity. This is no time for friction or the coddling of petty differences, religious propaganda or political thunder. But a period when there should be a united effort put forth by every one, regardless of religious affiliation or political views. "While Nero fiddled, Rome burned." Too many of us are fiddling, and refusing to face the issues and to concern ourselves about the things that will help to right the wrong and set our house in order.

Though your view may be most radical, it will be a service rendered to society, the state, and to humanity in general to drop such ideas that are preventing you from a co-operation with your fellow citizens in building up a spiritual unity, that will help in the solution of our mutual depressive condition.

With this as our supreme purpose we urge every citizen to co-operation in this, which, we are anxious to make a community wide revival meeting. Regardless of your Church affiliation you come remembering that your fellow citizens are meeting to think on their relationship one to another, and try to prepare themselves to meet the emergencies that we are facing today. To this one end we throw open wide the doors to every one and urge you to avail yourself of this opportunity.

ENJOY OLD FAVORITES.

The members of the Hondo Luncheon Club were entertained Tuesday with a program of songs by Miss Sarah Rothe, accompanied on the piano by her sister, Miss Lucy Rothe. The songs were selections from the Old Favorites and were beautifully rendered by these two accomplished young musicians.

After the luncheon, Secretary Henry Merriman spoke on a plan for advertising Hondo's business advantages, which has been inaugurated and is being financed by the Retail Merchants and the Trades Day Associations, and read the initial announcement which appears in the front page of this paper and which is being circulated also as an advertising leaflet for direct mailing.

After hearing the plan discussed the Club gave its unanimous endorsement to the same.

JACOB KARM DEAD.

Friends of Jacob Karm were grieved and shocked at the news of his sudden death Wednesday afternoon while enroute to Hondo from his home several miles north-east of town.

Mr. Karm had a severe attack of illness some week's ago but rallied from it and seemed to be regaining his strength slowly. But Wednesday he grew worse and his son started with him to town to consult a physician. He continued to grow worse and died before reaching the physician.

His remains were buried in Oakwood Cemetery Thursday afternoon, June 2, 1932, the funeral taking place from the Horger Funeral Home, and Rev. W. H. Leibfarth, pastor of the local Lutheran church, conducting the funeral services.

One of the largest crowds ever assembled for a funeral in Hondo gathered to pay their last respects to the departed.

This paper hopes to have a more fitting sketch of the life of this good man for our next issue.

LADIES' BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. Earl Starnes was hostess to the Ladies' Bridge Club, Thursday afternoon of last week, with four tables of bridge. Summer flowers were used in decoration of the living room and dining room.

Mrs. Fletcher Davis won high score prize and Mrs. R. J. Noonan received the cut prize.

The hostess served a delectable salad course of potato salad, saltines and iced tea.

Those present were Mesdames O. B. Taylor, Fletcher Davis, H. J. Meyer, R. W. Speece, F. H. Schweers, O. Rothe, Alice Reinhart, R. J. Noonan, Horace Bradley, L. E. Heath, L. J. Brucks, Ed. Conveyer, Nora Bendele, Earl Boon, W. H. Smith, Miss Lillian Brucks and Mrs. Starnes.

LUTHERAN LADIES' MEET.

The Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's Lutheran Church met at the home of Mrs. W. Leibfarth on Wednesday, June 1. The pastor opened the meeting with devotion and explained 17 and 18th chapters of Acts, illustrating Paul's missionary journeys. Business matters were then discussed.

The following ladies were present: the Mesdames R. Richter, W. Mussmann, Murphy, Muennink, Geo. Bendele, H. E. Haass, Henry Britsch, Louis Britsch, C. Miller, F. Batob, L. Mechler, F. Grube, B. Oefinger, A. Reinhardt, C. J. Stiegler, W. Leibfarth, and Miss Lena Saathoff. Mrs. Martin from Pearsall and Miss Alice Muennink were visitors.

GRADUATION ADDRESSES

Following is the 'Baccalaureate Sermon, preached by Rev. G. J. Parrish of Uvalde at the Hondo High School Auditorium, Sunday, May 22nd, for the graduating class of Hondo High School class of 1931-'32.

Following it are the papers read on Class Night, May 23rd, by members of the class.

And the Salutatory and Valedictory addresses of Graduation Night, May 24th, close the series.

The Anvil Herald is glad to publish these papers, both for their merit as productions and as a mark of appreciation and good will to the class. May the occasion which brought them forth ever be a pleasant spot in the Memory Garden of each member of the Class of 1931-'32.

EXCERPTS FROM THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

Preached at Hondo High School Auditorium, May 22, 1932, By Rev. G. J. Parrish.

Our subject today is the Glory of Youth; and our text is First Timothy 4:12: "Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example to them that believe." Nobody despises youth, unless it is lived desparably, as is too often done. The glory of youth is so dazzling in its splendor that it often blinds the eyes of the young person to the dangers that lurk in life's highway, just as animals on the road at night are blinded by the automobile lights so that they do not see the danger from the oncoming car. Anyone here over fifty would be glad to exchange ages with any of you who are under twenty. Youth is a priceless treasure. Nature, in the Providence of a loving heavenly Father, seems to be trying to make up to youth something of the great poverty youth suffers because of the lack of experience. If you young people today could have the advantage of the experience of those over fifty, not one of you would make a wreck of your lives. There are some young people who are wise enough to profit by the experience of others. God has arranged so everyone who is wise enough shall have the opportunity to profit by the experience of others when He arranged for experienced older people to live among the inexperienced young. The greatest interest and desire of the older is to help the younger. This building, these faithful teachers, the whole Public School system, the taxes and expense your parents and neighbors have provided for you, are all evidences of their interest in the young. These good teachers have poured their lives into your life. And their chief glory, as they sit in the gathering shadows of age will be in the memory that they have helped you. The glory of youth is so apparent on every hand that no one need prove it to you today or argue in its favor. All are interested that you "Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example."

If you are going to safeguard the glory of youth, so that no man can despise it, the first thing you need to give heed to is the kind of life you will live. Edgar A. Guest said:

"I have to live with myself, and I want to be fit for myself to know,
I want to be able, as the days go by,
Always to look myself straight in the eye;
I don't want to stand with the setting sun,
And hate myself for the things I've done."

One of the chief glories of youth is its long life-expectancy. Those of you about twenty today can fairly expect to live more than a half century. Of course, you do not know but this is your last day to live; but according to the averages of the age, of people in general, you can fairly expect to live to your three score years and ten. How glorious the thought of living with a good life all that long time. But how terrible to think of having to live all that long time with a rotten or broken, dirty life. It would be hard for you to endure the embarrassment of this one hour here today if you knew that you had dirt-splotches on your face. Think of having to endure the shame of three score years with dirty splotches on your face. Keep your face clean. Let no man despise thy youth because thy life is dirty. You can wash your face if you get it dirty, and it is as good as ever. You can't do that with your life, if you get it dirty. Hezekiah Butterworth has taught that lesson in his well-known poem, "The Bird With The Broken Pinion":

"I walked through the woodland meadows,
Where sweet the thrushes sing,
And I found on a bed of mosses
A bird with a broken wing.

I healed its wound, and each morning
It sang its old sweet strain,
But the bird with the broken pinion
Never soared as high again.

I found a young life broken
By sin's seductive art;
And, touched with a Christ-like pity,
I took it to my heart.

He lived with a noble purpose
And struggled not in vain;
But the life that sin had stricken

Never soared as high again.

But the bird with the broken pinion
Kept another from the snare;
And the life that sin had stricken Raised another from despair.

Each loss has its compensation,
There is healing for every pain;
But the bird with a broken pinion
Never soars as high again.
You will suffer loss that can never be repaired or made up if you allow your life to be soiled. Even the size of the world you are to live in is to be determined by the kind of life you live.

"The world stands out on either side
No wider than the heart is wide;
Above the world is stretched the sky,
No higher than the soul is high.

The heart can push the sea and land
Farther away on either hand;
The soul can split the sky in two
And let the face of God shine through.

But East and West will pinch the heart
That cannot keep them pushed apart;
And he whose soul is flat—the sky
Will close in on him by and by."
—Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Some one asked Mr. Einstein (I think it was) why such men as Mr. Kreuger of Switzerland and Mr. Eastman of America, commit suicide. He answered that these men had gone as high as they could go in their realm—the realm of things. "And he whose soul is flat—the sky will close in on him by and by." "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth," said Jesus. Life is greater than things.

Mr. Sunday tells of a friend of his who went with his wife and son to Alaska to make a fortune. Some years afterward he came back home, and his friends met him at the boat. He admitted that he had made a bigger fortune than he expected. Some one said, "But you don't look happy. Where are your wife and boy?" He said, "That is just it. Mary is back there somewhere; but we had to bury the boy in Alaska. I would rather have come back here under mortgage for millions than to have come like this. It is life that counts in this world; not things." My young friends, it is the kind of life you live that will count for most in this world. If you live an unworthy life it will be as impossible for you to do the good things you want to do as it is for a mole or a jack rabbit to out-distance the skylark on his morning flight to meet the sun. If you want to do worth-while things, you will have to live a worthy life. The kind of life you live makes it possible or impossible for you to do what you want to do in life. After you have lived unworthily it is too late to choose. You must decide now.

Mr. Fosdick has pointed out that even Jesus had to be the kind of man who could do the things he did. Just to have lived the kind of life for thirty-three years that the world would change its calendars to commemorate his birthday was an achievement more than any other man has ever done. Born in a stable between cattle; laid in a manger; reared a poor carpenter in a disreputable city; baptized between sinners; crucified between thieves; buried in a borrowed grave; hated by the officials and leaders of his people, who thought his death would be the end of him; it is the miracle of the ages that they were wrong, and that it was not the end of him. Even the names of his enemies are nearly all forgotten. Jesus is worshipped by more people today than ever before. He never wrote anything. Yet more books have been written about him and his work and his followers than have been written about anything else. The life that he lived was so glorious that, even when he was in agony on the cross, one of the thieves who were crucified with him hailed him as Lord. To have lived the kind of life that could show so much glory even in this disgraceful and horrible death—what more proof of his divinity do we need?

He gave the world its greatest idea of God. He immeasurably heightened man's estimate of his own worth. What faith he had in men. And that too, after all that men had done to him! He revealed to men the infinite possibility of reclamation and renewal. He proved that principle by choosing a publican to be one of his apostles. And the greatest book on success that has ever been written, says Roger Babson, is the gospel written by this publican—Matthew.

He gave the world its loftiest ethical ideas. They have never been surpassed, nor equaled, nor even approximated to this day. How glorious to have lived such a life that after nineteen hundred years the highest compliment that can be paid to anybody in this world is to say they are Christ-like. He gave the world its most appealing and effective exhibition of vicarious sacrifice. Ever since the world has had mothers it has had vicarious sacrifice as a part of the program of life. But after he practiced it it has had a new meaning and a new sacredness that amounts almost to a discovery. Jesus furnished the world with its most appealing purpose for sacrificial living. Napoleon was a great general—the world's greatest, they say. Yet, who would die for Napoleon today? There are thousands of missionaries in the dangerous places of earth, not only risking, but actually giving their lives for Christ. They are rejoicing today in their opportunity to give their lives for him. No one else ever lived who could command such loyalty and devotion. We have faith in others. Why should we doubt Christ? No one else has ever lived who could do the things he has done.

An old man who was a graduate of the great school of his day and a pupil of one of the greatest teachers—a man who was interested in the athletic games as his writings show, and would have been a member of the fraternity with the highest requirements if he lived today—in writing to a group of his young friends urged two things upon them: an open mind and a high purpose. He said: "Not as though I had already attained, either were already perfect—I count not myself to have apprehended, but this one thing I do—I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." These words reveal to us the secret of the wonderful success and great triumph of the apostle Paul. He had an open mind; and he had a life purpose.

Paul did not think he knew it all, or that he had accomplished enough. He had an open mind. And he urged it on his friends. William E. Brooks says: "It is so easy to close your mind. One man does it in the name of liberalism. I have met during the years many men who called themselves scholars who had simply closed every window in their minds to the religion of Jesus. Years before, perhaps, they had run afoul of some peculiar type of orthodoxy, and they had said to themselves, 'Well, I cannot be a liberal and believe that.' And the consequence was that they had ceased to be both liberal and religious. For liberalism does not mean the wearing of a label but the possession of an open mind. And an open mind never ignored a fact as important as Jesus because once it was not satisfied with a certain explanation of him."

"And there are others I have met whose minds were closed for the same reason as Francis of Hackett ascribes Katherine of Aragon. 'Katherine,' he says, 'was immured in her own spiritual righteousness. She wanted the environment to adapt itself to her and if it refused she stood the siege until her walls became her tombstone.' Unfortunately that experience is not limited to Katherine. Others have done the same. If they had not, we would not be in the condition we are today. You will forgive me if I say that you may be tempted to join the company. New ideas are going to come crowding in on you in these amazing years through which we are passing, some of them vastly disturbing. That always happens in a time like this. Will you shut your mind to them, and stand the siege until 'your walls become your tombstone'?"

A Jewess—the wife of a Jew who was proprietor of a hotel in which a Christian Church boarded its evangelist during a revival—was urged by the preacher to attend one of the churches of the town and worship with those who would be worshipping God there. The preacher explained that the Jews and the Gentiles worship the same God and read of Him from the same book. One thinks of Him as interpreted by Moses; the other thinks of Him as interpreted by Christ. "Why can't you be open-minded enough," he said to her, "to think Moses when they say Christ? And if they say Peter, or another of the New Testament writers, think Isaiah or one of the other prophets or Old Testament writers. Your synagogue is far away and you hardly ever get to go. You could keep from starving your soul from lack of worship and could grow your spiritual life along with these other children of God. Don't let the difference of theology and nationality rob you of the growth of your soul. God gave you to me for a sister. Men have tried to give me a theology that would rob me of my sister and make me look down on you as something inferior to me. I will not have it so. I think God knew better how to give me a good gift than men knew. I will keep what God gave me—you—my sister—and let men keep their theologies until they can revise them so as to include you and all God's children." After considerable discussion she said to the preacher: "That is the finest word I ever heard." She saw it!—because she had an open mind.

Rabbi Barnston, of Houston, said in an address to the Ministerial Alliance of that city: "I have been trained not to believe that Christ is the Messiah the way you men do. But I am sure he is the greatest benefactor the human family has ever had." Then he added: "If I can say that, being a Jew, what ought you Christian preachers to be able to say?" He could see it, because he kept an open mind. Even a Jew, with an open mind, is not "smug in his own squat righteousness." May you heed the pleading of the apostle Paul, and the wish of all who love you and understand, and keep an open mind.

The other thing the apostle Paul urged is a high purpose. "This one thing I do." Until youth stakes all on one purpose that is worth giving up everything else to attain, it has not found itself, and has no chance to realize the best in life. J. Hayes said: "If a young man is loose in his principles and habits; if he lives without plan and without object, spending his time in idleness and pleasure, there is more hope of a fool than of him." And that is just as true of a young woman. We hear a great deal of talk about self expression. Many are more concerned about expressing themselves than they are concerned about having a "self" worth expressing. But it is not enough to just be good. Many people are good, good, good—but good for what?—nothing. Have a purpose that is worth giving your life for. Be good for something.

Your generation will be called on to consider and decide many great questions for the good of the world. But the greatest of all those questions is "What will you do with Jesus?" The world has tried everything else. On the verge of ruin it is hearing Jesus say, "What will you do with me?" His program has not failed. "Christianity has not failed. It was found difficult and left untried." With a pure heart and clean hands you must come to take your place in the great councils of humanity. You must do your work in and for your own community. Be faithful to the highest and best of the inheritance God has given you, whether you received it through Jew, Gentile, Catholic, Protestant, American, European, or what not. For God "made of one every nation of men to dwell on all the face of the earth." (Acts 17:26). You have only one life to live. Choose for that life the very best power. There is none like the power of Christ. You deserve the best. There is no best in the life that leaves him out.

"I know not where His islands lift
Their fringed palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care."

CLASS HISTORY.

By Miss Lucille Van Fleet.

As a member of the graduating class of '32, I have been honored by being made class historian. Cervantes said, "Historians ought to be precise, faithful, and unprejudiced; neither fear nor interest, hatred nor affection should make them swerve from the truth." Accordingly, I will try to come up to these specifications in giving you a brief survey of our high school career. After all, history is but the unrolled scroll of prophecy, and thus I hope to let you know what you may expect of us in life through this history.

But to begin with this class, its first year in school. In 1921, there were 22 small children that came to register as beginners. Of these 22, there are now seven graduating in this class.

As the years rolled by to 1928, some left school for other schools and some decided to leave school altogether. There were forty-one that entered high school as Freshmen in this school. Some enlightened person informed us that organization was necessary and in a typical Freshmen class meeting, we elected George Muennink as our president, Thelma Wilson as our vice-president, and Jean Ulbrich as our secretary-treasurer. At the end of the year there were twenty-six Freshmen ready to become Sophomores.

Our Sophomore year was almost a repetition of the first year. There was a little less work to be done and that was done more cheerfully because we were more privileged than the Freshmen. Thelma Wilson was our president; Lucy Davis our vice-president; Frank Rucker our secretary, and Mary Lois Barnes our reporter.

It was not until our Junior year that we began to find ourselves and let the school know our ability. We elected Frank Rucker, president, Lucille Van Fleet, vice-president, and Mary Lois Barnes, secretary-treasurer. By this time, our class of nine boys and seventeen girls were looking forward to the time when we would be privileged Seniors.

On September 9, 1931, there were twenty-five Seniors registered, nine boys and sixteen girls. We elected Frank Rucker, president; Lucy Davis, vice-president, and Lucille Van Fleet, secretary-treasurer.

Time has flown and with the hard work of our last year, spiced with picnics, parties, and banquets, Commencement has caught us unawares. Tomorrow night we will add the last chapter to our high school life when we receive our diploma.

In athletics our class has been well represented. Jean, Frank, Russell, Charley, Tommy and Jack have represented us in football. Adolf, Jean and Frank have entered track events in the County Meet. Charley, Tommy, Frank and Jean have placed on the baseball team. Frank, Jean and Russell have played basketball. Hettie and Evelyn have represented us in girls' tennis and Jack in boys' tennis in the County Meet.

Our class has also been noted for its literary qualities. Irene Meehler and Jack have declaimed. Mary Lois, Elva and Jack have spelled and Irene Neumann has represented us in essay writing. The Seniors have thus helped to score many points for Hondo High School.

The Seniors have many people to thank for the successful termination of their high school career. Especially should we thank Mr. Fluker who has been our sponsor for the four years of our high school work. All the members of the faculty have worked patiently with us in an attempt to overcome our dumbness, and in parting we would like to say to them that which the little girl said to her teacher on being promoted from the first grade, "We wish you knew enough to come along and teach us again next year."

In conclusion, I wish to quote from Longfellow: "The history of the past is a mere puppet show; a little man comes out and blows a little trumpet and goes in again. You look for something new and lo! another little man comes out and blows another little trumpet and goes in again—and it is all over." I thank you for listening to my little trumpet.

CLASS SAYINGS.

By Miss Thelma Wilson.

I shall endeavor to give and pass on to you some of the expressions or sayings of the Seniors of 1932.

Throughout the past four years, a little bird has followed each one in this graduating class, and has discovered his or her witty remark.

This little bird that learned all of these cute and clever sayings, was not a coo-coo bird at first, but it is now. Please do not judge these graduates too harshly, because of the silliness of the expressions. They were just made in fun.

Lyla Strawn: May I paint on the sign now?

Naomi Steinle: I wish you'd go quiet so I could study.

Lucille Van Fleet: That letter from Pearsall came today!

Russell Speece: Boy, I'm sleepy! Mary Lois Barnes: I gave the boys a break!

Jack Muennink: I'm an answer to a squirrel's prayer.

Irene Neumann: How I hate to write poetry.

Elva Mumme: Well, I should have made a hundred.

Vivian Neumann: Now, I don't understand that.

Jeanette Merritt: Yeah—uh—huh!

Adolf Balzen: Now isn't that simply go-rogiuous!

Evelyn Kimmey: Why do I talk so much in Spanish class?

Irene Meehler: How I like baby Austins!

Jean Ulbrich: We want a lady, not a blonde!

Dwycce Cameron: I resent that statement.

Lucy Davis: More than likely.

Margaret Dillon: Deah me!

Frank Rucker: How's your visibility?

Dorothy Ann Eckhart: Just you watch at me.

Thelma Wilson: Wasn't that a beautiful run?

Robert Zuberbuehler: Oh yeah?

CLASS PROPHECY.

By Miss Lucy Davis.

I was seated one day at my beloved organ. I was tired and weary and my fingers wandered over the many keys in an attempt to pick up the faint memory of a loved song. As I sat there I began to dream and out of my dreams came the strains of the song of my high school days and the memory of my former classmates—the Seniors of '32. What had happened to them? Where were they? My fingers strayed on at random, making soft melodies to accompany my dreams. But was I dreaming?

Over the tones of the organ came a roar, "Finger! Finger!" And I saw crowded bleachers in a Chicago baseball park, enthusiastic fans throwing their hats into the air as Tommy Finger fanned the last slugger for a win of 1 to 0.

The tempo quickened and before my eyes I beheld a New York stage where a versatile performer was bringing down the house. Beneath the make-up I recognized Jeanette Merritt. She was doing a double act—her intricate dance steps were made for her own accompaniment on the clarinet.

Lovely! The strains of Lohengrin's wedding march came to my ears and I found myself following in duet as down the aisle came a charming bride, Rosa Lee Hendrickson, on the arm of her groom, a young coffee planter from Brazil.

I no longer heard soft music—the sounds were drowned by the brisk clicking of typewriters and the buzz of many voices. Above the hubbub I heard someone ask, "You wish to speak to Mr. Jean Wesley Ulbrich of the New York Times? Just turn down the second corridor and enter the door marked 'Editor'." You'll find him there." I recalled that Jean had received his early training on the Owl.

As the sounds of the business world faded the scene shifted to a luxurious Park Avenue apartment in the throes of decoration. A business-like young woman was showing several workmen the proper way to drape a velvet curtain to get the full beauty of effect. Hedwig Nester had realized her dream and was the owner of a successful interior decorating business.

Quiet, and then the hum of many voices was the innovation of my aimless fingers upon the keys. I saw an immense class of mature students pour from the halls of Columbia University and a number of enthusiastic Physics students linger behind to consult their teacher, Dorothy Ann Eckhart, about the principle of Archimedes.

A quick span of the keys and I was in South America. I recognized the deep and decisive voice of Russell Speece calling orders to his men constructing a massive bridge which spanned a deep gorge in the Andes. He was chief engineer of the South American Steel Construction Co.

My song changed to the compositions of Rosenberg. Rosenberg? Ah, I saw the Rosenberg Library of Galveston, Texas, and the head librarian, Miss Lucille Van Fleet, was checking over the list of new book arrivals. A title, "Oak Leaves", caught her eye and on investigating she read aloud, "by Irene Neumann, with illustrations by the famous ether, Naomi Steinle."

My hands dropped into my lap as the awe-inspiring blending of full pipe organ tones came to me with the picture of Jack Muennink and Jesse Crawford at the mighty Wurlitzers of the Ambassador Theatre in New York City.

After a silence of admiration and

ing. Johnson's death penalty was affirmed a few weeks ago. The jury found Kempf from his home and him to death with an iron pipe. A small amount of money and body hidden in the weeds near school house.

The court originally held the trial judge erred in allowing Green to plead guilty to the indictment. After a supplemental transcript and statement of facts had been filed, in which it was brought out that trial judge twice asked Green's attorney if he wished to withdraw guilty plea, the appeals court reversed its decision. Green's attorney stated he did not desire to withdraw the plea.

Reduce the Acid

SICK stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated.

Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour. Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. For 50 years the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably be in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians in correcting excess acid.

ANNING CHICKEN FOR HOME USE.

By Zella Wigent.

Editorial Extension Department,
International Harvester Company.

Chicken is one of the meats which can be canned without losing much of its deliciousness.

Every farm housewife knows the necessity of having the ready-to-eat meats for those sudden-notice visitors who are always coming up but who are not always coming up with their point in canning chicken on the economy effected by canning the chickens out of the feed before the expensive winter feeding and housing period starts.

Producing hens and well-cared cockerels are the classes of chickens that are usually canned.

When the chicken culling time is usually the best time to can them.

The process of canning chicken is the same as the process of canning other meat. All meat products processed or cooked in the cans are exhausted and then sealed before processing; glass cans are only partially sealed before canning.

At the stage of canning by pre-heating the equipment the day before, you are using glass jars, wash the jars and match the covers. Use new jars. Tin cans should be washed and dried; the lids should be wiped with a moist cloth care being taken to dampen the paper gaskets.

It is best to kill, dress and draw chickens late in the afternoon so that they will be cool when canned. In the when most chicken canning is done the nights are cool enough that there is no danger of spoilage. Cut the chicken in the usual way. In canning chickens, care should be taken to get the contents of the interior tract on the chicken meat.

The liver should never be canned because it imparts a flavor which is undesirable.

A special screwed-to-the-kitchen sealing device is needed to seal cans. Tin cans are especially good meat canning because it is easy to get the pieces out when the cans are opened.

Canning is a process of killing by heat and yet at the same time saving the food texture and flavor of the product. Pressure kettles make it easy to secure high temperatures. The recommended time processing meat in quart cans is 15 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

A hot water processing outfit is allow three hours for No. 2 tin cans and 3 1-2 hours for the No. 3 tin cans. The water should cover the tops of the cans. Time should be counted from the time the water begins to boil after the cans are placed into it and the water should be kept at a bubbly boil the time.

For boneless chicken, all ready made into creamed chicken, meat and other tasty chicken dishes convenient. The older tougher chicken may be used for these cans.

Boil the chicken until the meat falls off the bone easily. Pack the chicken meat into the cans with broth. Process 60 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

FARMERS TO CONSIDER.

Fletcher's Farming, published at Hondo, Texas, has the following in February

Living from the land should be first consideration on the farm year. He who most nearly profits it will profit most from his operations.

Every farmer would do well to study the above. It is not really advice, but merely friendly admonition.—Fred B. Robinson in Waco

Belts, harnesses, and other leather articles on the farm last much longer and give better service if oiled periodically. Neat's-foot oil, castor oil, lanolin, olive oil, and winter sperm oil, or mixtures of these, are good.
To be effective, the oil must get into the leather—not merely on it. Too much oil, however, makes the surface greasy and "smeary." Apply a little oil at a time and repeat the applications until the leather is well oiled.

MRS. JOHN CARR.

Mrs. John Carr (nee Hutzler) died suddenly at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hutzler, at Dunlay, May 20, 1932, at 7:00 P. M. Mrs. Carr was born here Sept. 5th, 1894, and married Mr. John Carr five years ago. Surviving her are her husband and a son four years old, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hutzler, one sister, Mrs. Haag of San Antonio, and one brother, Julius Hutzler of Castroville.

Her remains were brought here Sunday, May 22, and now rest in the St. Louis cemetery. The last sad rites were performed by Rev. J. Lenz.

We sincerely sympathize with the family in their bereavement.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. OLGA CARR.

Of as we are sitting all alone,
Reflecting on the past,
A thought which is so sad but true
Presents itself to our view.

What is this thought that pains us?
You of course would like to know,
Is it not of a friend sincere,
Who has left us sorrowing here?

Yes, of her it is we're thinking,
Who always greeted us with a smile
And if any way we needed help,
She was the first one to reply.

Oh, such a faithful wife was she,
Always aiming to do right;
If trouble, care or trials came,
She bore them with a heart so light.

Yes, we will miss her very much,
But our loss is heaven's gain,
And ere long we hope to meet her,
And forever there remain.

Oh, Olga, dear, we loved you so,
Our hearts ache with grief and pain.
Dearest, we beg you pray for us,
That in heaven we'll meet you again.

Therefore, dearest husband, loving Parents, sister and brother,
Weep no more for dearest Olga,
For above she prays for you.

Aunt, Mrs. E. G. H.

NEW FOUNTAIN EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The first business meeting of this new league year was held last month at the home of John Muennink, at which time a new policy was outlined for this year. Each member will receive a copy as soon as it is printed. Twenty-six members and a number of visitors were present. We enjoy having visitors. Come again.

After the business session, refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served, after which Bunco was played. The evening was enjoyed by all.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Clarence Schweers, June 7th.

Leaguers, let's play, plan and work together and live up to our motto, "All for Christ", and let's leave nothing undone and don't be a quitter. First always know your plan is right. Then go to work with all your might. When you decide a thing to do. Don't quit until you get it thru. Because the quitter never wins; He who leaves undone what he begins, And takes up something else to do; His plan he never carries thru. The Epworth League wants to be like the man

Who always carries out his plan.

FIRESTONES STAND SEVERE TEST.

A graphic story of the remarkable part played by tires in the 500-mile international sweepstakes on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, Decoration Day, was told today by T. D. McElroy, Firestone dealer in Hondo. It was the thirteenth consecutive triumph for Firestone in this great motor racing classic.

"There is no more severe test of automobile tires than that to which they were put at Indianapolis," said Mr. McElroy.

"The cars darted along the straightaways at close to 150 miles an hour and swept into the embanked curves at an appalling pace. It was on these turns that the stress and strain was the hardest. As the cars dived into the turns, their momentum caused them to climb the embankment from the lower rim to the outer. This was an uncontrollable action by the car and it is called 'drifting'. In these perilous moments it was necessary that there be a perfect co-ordination between the skill of man and the strength of steel and rubber to avoid disaster.

"At these terrific speeds one would expect to find great holes burned in the tread and the rubber worn entirely away. But nothing of the sort happened. An inspection of Firestone tires after they had traveled the full 500 miles revealed an amazing state of preservation. Very little wear was discernable.

"It is the patented construction features of Firestone tires which have made it possible for them to hold a supreme mastery for thirteen years in the 500-mile contest. Gum-dipping is one of these features. By this process the innermost fibers of the cord body are coated with rubber and protected against the fierce heat which in other tires is developed by friction at high speeds. At 100 miles an hour the centrifugal force in a tire increases its circumference by more than ten percent, which would throw off the treads of ordinary tires. Firestone engineers solved this problem by means of a construction principle known as two extra gum-dipped cord plies under the tread. By this patented method of construction the tread and body are held together in a perfect unit.

"The life of a racing driver is dependent at all times on the performance of his tires. It is not surprising that the majority choose Firestone."

QUIHI NOTES.

"Love rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things," I Cor. 13, 5 and 7.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock Bethlehem's Lutheran Sunday school and Bible class meet. To this interesting and profitable service both old and young are cordially invited.

Divine services will be held Sunday in Bethlehem Lutheran church as follows: In the German tongue at 10 A. M. and in the English language at 8 o'clock P. M. A cordial invitation to come to these services is extended to all. Come and worship the Lord.

The Quihi Luther League is arranging to give a membership social in the near future in the parish hall. The committee of arrangements are Mr. Edwin Grell, chairman, Mr. Milton Oefinger and Misses Elen Hartman and Hilda Munne.

Sunday afternoon the children of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schmidt were baptized in Bethlehem Lutheran church, the older one, a fine little boy, receiving the name of Oscar Schmidt, Jr., and having for his sponsors Mr. and Mrs. Armin W. Breiten, and the younger of the two, a little lady, receiving the name of Edith May and having as sponsors Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich J. Lindeburg. The event was duly and nicely celebrated with an excellent barbecue dinner and lunch under the shade trees of Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich J. Lindeburg's farm home.

Sunday night the Quihi Luther League rendered a very interesting and entertaining literary-musical program to a large and appreciative audience in Bethlehem Lutheran church. Mrs. Henry Schuehle presided in her courteous and efficient manner at the piano. Mr. Edwin Grell swung the baton, while a number of other leaguers rendered a number of splendid musical and literary numbers in a manner to make some of the Quihi's Dads and Mothers feel proud of their boys and girls. These young people proved again what can be accomplished by unity and co-operation, supplemented by intelligent effort.

Following the Luther League program a meeting was held by the league in which Mr. Otto Lindeburg Hondo's bee man, Jerry F. Smith, reports a fair yield of early honey from the Huajilla blossom. The yield could have been more abundant under more favorable conditions, but the quality and appearance could scarcely be excelled, as we can testify from having tried some of the product. Like everything else, however, the low price is worrying the producer. But in this case there should be this compensation: honey is so cheap that even those super-sensitive politicians who froth under criticism of their favorites can afford the cost of keeping sweet. Dog Days are a long ways ahead--now is the time to eat honey!

Ed Ingram says when eggs went down to five cents some of his hens went on a strike and refused to lay such a cheap product. Now that they have gone up to nine, however, he is worried because the hens do not seem to have found it out.

SOUTHWEST TEXAS SCOUTERS MEET.

President E. K. Fawcett and Chas. Nixon of Del Rio, Sterling H. Fly of Crystal City, John Smylie of Sabinal, V. A. Brown of Rocksprings, Sam Schwartz and W. A. Hewitt of Eagle Pass, Judge O. A. Mills, D. W. Price, and F. M. Getzendaner, with the Scout Executive of Uvalde, met at the City Hall at Uvalde Friday morning, the 27th. This Executive Board agreed to accept the offer of the State Health Department to furnish typhoid serum, without cost, to every Scout Troop in the Area, making the application through the County and City Health authorities, this being a precaution that is required in the commercial camps, and strongly urged as a part of the health and safety program in all Scout camps.

This group ordered the completion of the mess hall floor at the camp, as the gravel has already been hauled and the cement is already on hand.

Commissioner Getzendaner presented an itemized statement of the Council's financial condition and a suggested budget for the fiscal year, beginning June 1, 1932. That, after the present indebtedness of the Council is taken care of, will be about one third of the amount that this group of men thought necessary to operate on. This group of men, despite conditions, feel that Scouting is a necessary social agency in Southwest Texas, and is asking every utilities company, corporation, parent and friend of Scouts to help keep and support this character building program. They believe that its influence is more far reaching and even more necessary when literally thousands of boys are out of school and without jobs. Scouting, under the proper leadership, will fill leisure hours for boys with worthwhile things to do.

A ROARING GOOD TIME FOR ALL

YOUNG FOLKS LISTEN.

It is time you were thinking seriously about that business education necessary for getting on the pay roll this fall, or being prepared to work your way through college. By entering Byrne College now, you can do what Miss Mary Dell Wilson, the young lady whose picture appears on the enclosed circular, has done. A year ago, now, she was graduated from high school, today she is a well paid government secretary in the State Banking Department. Hundreds of our graduates who enrolled with us when high school closed last year would not think of giving up their position and be placed back along side of those who did not take advantage of Byrne training last summer.

Don't let the employment question bother you. It isn't bothering Byrne students graduating at this time, for we have a very effective plan of securing positions for our graduates, and as business improves along toward fall it will be even easier for us to place them.

You would enjoy spending your summer under electric fans in Byrne College. Our work being practically all of the laboratory type makes it so different from the work you have been doing that it will be a rest for you. You will enjoy the association of our splendid student body of fine young men and women. There isn't a finer group to be found anywhere than you will find in Byrne College. Please remember that Byrne College, with its seven copyrighted textbooks, is the only school that can give you a thorough business course and graduate you by the first of September ready for the pay roll or college.

We invite you to visit us and get our special prices, and also get our plan of making up special courses of study which you can handle under our individual advancement plan. These special courses are made up with a view of giving you just what you want in the shortest time possible and at the smallest possible cost. We give you almost twice as much for your time and money as any other school in the city, but come and see for yourself.

If you have had commercial work in high school, we make a liberal allowance for the advancement already made, for we build on what you have. If you only need our Office Training and Employment Service, we are able to make you very attractive prices and terms for this service.

Please call at our office, or write or phone us, at your earliest convenience. You will find our school very interesting and very different from any other. It is more like a big business office, and our individual advancement plan and our laboratory method of teaching give us an advantage you will appreciate.
